Monday, April 6, 2020 / Issue: 15

With information regarding COVID-19 continually being updated, I've decided to publish this newsletter to share what we know with the residents of Renton. In each edition our team will bring you the latest updates from around the city as well as information from state and federal officials and agencies.

Updating the council and city on our COVID-19 efforts

Earlier tonight I gave the City Council and the residents of Renton an update on our efforts in the past few weeks to slow the spread of COVID-19, while providing core city services. For those of you who have subscribed to this newsletter, we have provided the reasons for each step we have taken and also highlighted some of the unspoken heroes in our community. I know the uncertainty of what we are facing is particularly challenging. The health and safety of you and your family is our first priority.

Business assist

Providing assistance to our small businesses continues to be a high priority through this pandemic. As a small business owner, I understand what my fellow owners are going through.

The city's economic development team, led by Cliff Long, has taken several steps to provide help, starting with providing access to resources contained in the Federal Cares Act.

Start Up 425, our consortium of economic development partners, including Renton, Bellevue, Kirkland, Redmond and Issaquah, has agreed to share the cost of hiring Business Impact Northwest (BIN) to provide technical resources and support to Renton businesses. We have designated one staff member to serve as the point of contact for businesses wanting to connect with BIN. Businesses will be sent notices on Tuesday detailing this new service, which also includes a dedicated phone number and email address.

Finally, we assigned three staff members to make direct contact with local businesses to assist with their needs, and we will be doing a special outreach to Renton restaurants to help them access benefits provided by the Schultz Family Foundation.

Asian American Month in Renton

At the City Council meeting I was proud to proclaim April 6 as Duc Tran Day and recognizing Asian Americans as Renton's Ambassadors. Our community is stronger and more vibrant because of the contributions and accomplishments of Asian American men and women.

During this on-going pandemic, one member of the Asian American community, also a member of the Mayor's Inclusion Task Force, Duc Tran, has provided free lunches to hospital staff and is planning to do the same for our first responders. This in addition to keeping his Viet-Wah Asian Food Market open and serving the community. And, he is donating much needed masks during these difficult times to the city. Thank-you, Duc, for all that you have done and will continue to do for our community.

The proclamation also emphasizes our community's belief in the dignity, equality, safety and constitutional and civil rights of all people. It also reaffirms our intolerance of hate, discrimination, harassment, or behavior that creates fear, isolation, or intimidation.

I hope you'll join me in supporting our Asian American neighbors as opportunities arise and affirming the value they have brought to our city.

Metro Transit update

The COVID-19 pandemic has caused service cuts to several bus routes serving Renton. Tomorrow, my staff will take part in a town hall meeting with Metro Transit general manager Tom Gannon from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m. to ensure we represent Renton's interests with regard to proposed schedule changes that might impact our riders.

Governor closes schools

Gov. Inslee today extended his ban on on-site learning through the end of the 2019-20 school year. Washington is now the fourteenth state to move to a full-time distance learning module. The governor said that re-opening schools would be too big a risk to take as we work through flattening the COVID-19 curve. The governor's order also allows school districts to fully concentrate on a distance-learning module.

Masks

Late last week the state Department of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommended the wearing of cloth face coverings in public settings where it is difficult to maintain 6 feet of distance from others. The two groups cited trips to the grocery store, pharmacy, hardware store, health clinic or similar places, as reasons to wear face coverings.

They did not a mandate wearing a face covering, nor did they cite it as a substitute for maintaining proper social distancing from non-household members and for performing frequent hand hygiene. They considered the cover an additional layer of protection, but caution it will not prevent the spread of COVID-19 without these other protective measures:

- Performing frequent hand hygiene with soap and water or alcohol-based hand sanitizer
- Avoiding touching eyes, nose and mouth with unwashed hands
- Avoiding being around sick people
- Practicing social distancing, especially by staying at home

We have links to their recommendations on our COVID-19 resources page.

Inspections - Building and Development Engineering

Community and Economic Development Department (CED) has been receiving questions from homeowners and contractors regarding how the city is interpreting the construction-related provisions of Gov. Inslee's Stay Home, Stay Healthy Proclamation and related guidance issued by the Governor's Office.

- CED has interpreted the Stay Home, Stay Healthy order to deem new residential and commercial construction as non-essential activities, except that construction of public projects (such as public affordable housing projects) and public components of private projects (such as utilities and streets intended for turnover to the city) are essential activities. Furthermore, CED has interpreted the Stay Home, Stay Healthy order to allow construction related to the order's list of essential activities including supply chain for goods, services, and healthcare.
- Under these interpretations, CED will continue its physical inspections associated with the following city-issued permits:
 - Building permits for occupied residential structures necessary to avoid damage or unsafe conditions;
 - Building permits for buildings that are a necessary component of the community's supply chain for goods, services, and healthcare;
 - Engineering permits for facilities intended to be made part of the city's public infrastructure. Such facilities include water, sanitary sewer, and stormwater utilities intended to be transferred to the city at completion and street improvements intended to be transferred to the city at completion.
- Although CED will not be performing physical onsite inspections for new unoccupied homes or other projects not falling into the above list, some inspections can be accomplished virtually. If you are interested in more information about virtual inspections, please contact the Building Division: 425-430-7202.
- These interpretations are valid as of March 30, 2020 under the governor's guidance in effect as of that date. Please note that these interpretations are subject to change as more information becomes available regarding the efforts to contain COVID-19 or if further guidance is issued by the governor's office.
